Bids Opened Totaled $6.7 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Highway Commission opened bids today on 10 road and bridge jobs costing $6,781,156.

J. B. Michael and Co., of Memphis was the apparent low bidder at $1,067,023 on the largest contract. It calls for surfacing 7.7 miles of Interstate Route 55 from Upper Sandy Bayou northeastward in Mississippi County.

Foster and Croighton Co. of Nashville, Tenn., submitted an apparent low bid of $1,517,626 for grade preparation work on the Highway 65-167 relocation south of Little Rock.

The job will run near the south terminal interchange of Interstate Route 30 to near the Saline County line.

Here is a list of other jobs, by counties, with apparent low bidders:

Cross: Surfacing 1.4 miles of Highway 42 between Birdseye and Coldwater and construction of two bridges: W. L. Sharp Contracting Co., of Memphis, $161,333.

Desha and Drew: Surfacing 10.7 miles of Highway 65 from intersection with Highway 1 near McGehee northward: T. L. James and Co., of Ruston, La., $648,131.

Chicot: Construction of a bridge at Beef River Diversion Ditch on Highway 144: Southeast Construction Co., of Pine Bluff, $53,158.

Sebastian: Surfacing 2.7 miles of Highway 255 from its intersection with Highway 22 to Lavaca: D. P. Jones Construction Co., of Little Rock, $162,438.

Hot Spring: Surfacing 6.4 miles of Highway 22 eastward from its junction with Highway 51: Joint bid by W. C. Burrow of Malvern, Schmeckenbecker Bros., of Sweet Home and Malvern Gravel Co., $310,137.

Callahan: Surfacing 7.2 miles of Highway 79 northward from the Ouachita County line: Reynolds and Williams of Little Rock, $664,307.

Van Buren and Searcy: Surfacing 7.0 miles of Highway 65 northward from Bolckinsburg: McGeorge Contracting Co., of Pine Bluff, $1,197,290.

Conway: Surfacing 1.8 miles and construction of one bridge on a county road near Blackwell and Highways 45 and 92: A. K. McBridge of Fort Smith, $179,704.

7 of 10 Fail to Complete High School

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Education Department reports that in Arkansas seven out of ten children enrolling in the first grade do not complete high school.

Education Commissioner Arch Ford said Tuesday that Arkansas' drop out rate is 13 per cent higher than the national average, but the situation has improved since 1957.

In a report prepared for public distribution the department observed that while the percentage is higher in rural areas, the problem also remains serious in urban schools.

Because of this large dropout percentage, Ford said, the development of state vocational training schools is vital.

"I think this report will open a lot of eyes," Ford added.

Juvenile Seminar Here Thurs.

A juvenile seminar will be held at the Hempstead County Courtroom all day Thursday, March 8, with Circuit Judges Lyle Brown and Bobby Steel presiding.

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP)—The Public Health Service has said it will examine about 150 persons from Jackson and Lawrence Counties as part of a nationwide effort to gather health statistics.

The examinations begin March 17, and will extend about three weeks.

Purpose of the examinations is to provide figures on certain chronic physical and physiological ailments.

Examinations will be conducted by the PHS at 30 other points across the nation.

Praise From All Sides for Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Praise from several senators has capped Francis Gary Powers' story of his U2 flight over the Soviet Union, his capture and imprisonment in one of the cold war's hottest episodes.

It was an exciting story the soft-spoken pilot told Tuesday in a 90-minute appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee—of a mystery explosion 12 miles up, a spinning plane and long hours of questioning.

Then as secretly as he came, the high altitude flier slipped away for a vacation.

CIA Director John A. McCone told reporters Powers will continue to be employed by the CIA.

"We have additional work for him to do," McCone said. "I hope today's hearing has cleared up any cloud that may have been hanging over him."

After the hearing Powers linked his arms with two sisters and went off for what he said will be a vacation at an unannounced place. He indicated he plans no news conference such as President Kennedy said the pilot would be free to hold.

In the faint country twang of southwest Virginia Powers told the committee in a packed hearing room, where spectators often broke into applause, that he doesn't really know what caused the explosion that downed his plane.

He said the blast, which fired the sky with orange, "sounded like a 'shump.'" He conceded it might have come from a nearby missile by a Soviet rocket.

Powers' recital of his efforts to destroy the secret equipment in his stricken craft, his agonizing fight to get out of the U2 and his disposal of a map while riding his parachute down obviously impressed senators and spectators.

Senators nodded approval as he testified that when his efforts to invent a cover story failed he decided to tell the Russians he was linked with the CIA—as he said he had been instructed to do if he were captured—but withheld some vital information.

The biggest outburst of applause came when Powers raised his voice to say that during his ordeal of capture, imprisonment, endless hours of questioning, trial and sentence he always remembered that "I am an American."

At another point he cried loudly, "Oh, no" when he was asked if he were under obligation to kill himself if captured.

Even before Powers testified the CIA said in a report the 32-year-old pilot had lived up to his instructions and "his obligations as an American." The report said he would get his back pay, amounting to about $50,000.

Not all the senators on the committee voiced praise of Powers. But Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., told the flier he wanted to commend him as "a courageous, fine young American citizen who lived up to his instructions and did the best you could under very difficult circumstances."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said he was "satisfied to learn you lived up to your obligations."

Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., Inc., one of the largest photo finishing firms in the South, commented he was satisfied Powers had "conducted himself in an

La.-Nevada Appeals Judgment

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Louisiana Nevada Transit Co., appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court Tuesday a Hempstead Circuit Court order requiring the natural gas pipeline company to pay 80 per cent of a damage claim. The company was assessed $2,388 in a judgement awarded Ozan Lumber Co. for a fire which destroyed several acres of trees last year in Hempstead County. A contractor who was clearing underbrush from the company's surface right of way was assessed the other 20 per cent.

Say Smoking Cause of Diseases

By ALPIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—A committee from Britain's Royal College of Surgeons reported today after a two-year study that cigarette smoking may be a contributing cause of death from a number of diseases besides lung cancer.

The committee studied thousands of case histories and examined more than 200 other medical inquiries into smoking. Some of their conclusions leaked out several weeks ago. But the full 70-page report was not made public until today.

Here are some of their findings: Cigarette smoking is the most likely cause of the recent worldwide increase in deaths from lung cancer.

The habit probably increases the risk of death from coronary heart disease, particularly in early middle age.

It may be partly responsible for tuberculosis deaths among elderly men.

Smoking may be a contributory factor in cancer of the mouth, pharynx, esophagus and bladder.

It may be a reason for the increased mortality from peptic ulcers; and

It is an important predisposing cause in development of chronic bronchitis.

Observatory Satellite Is Fired Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to give scientists their first clear look at basic mysteries of the sun.

The 458-pound OSO payload roared away from this spaceport at 11:06 a. m. (EST) aboard a Thor-Delta rocket. All three stages ignited as planned and propelled the craft into orbit about 350 miles above the earth at 17,000 miles an hour.

Less than an hour later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that radio signals received by ground stations indicated the satellite was in orbit.

One of the most complex scientific payloads ever sent aloft, OSO was designed to make the first comprehensive study of the sun from a vantage point above the distorting influence of the earth's atmosphere.

Algeria Talks of Peace Are Revived

By JOSEPH E. DYMAN

EVIAN, France (AP)—French and Algerian rebel officials sat down at the conference table again today for what may be the final round of talks in their long search for an agreement to end the Algerian rebellion.

Three Swiss army helicopters flew the Algerian delegation across Lake Geneva from their hotel headquarters on the Swiss side. Rebel Vice Premier Belkacem Krim led the Algerian team.

Louis Joxe, French minister for Algerian affairs, headed the French negotiators waiting in Evian's Hotel du Marc to hammer out final details of an accord providing for a cease-fire and referendum to give independence to strife-torn Algeria.

Amid widespread expectations that a peace agreement would be reached in a matter of days, violence and bloodshed continued unabated in Algeria. Tuesday's toll there was 24 killed and 32 wounded as the rightist European Secret Army Organization bent on keeping French control of the territory, kept up terror raids, and the Muslims retaliated.

Sunday Sales at Shreveport Banned

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A proposed city ordinance to prohibit the sale of dry goods on Sundays was approved Tuesday by a 2-1 margin.

The complete vote from the city's 43 precincts showed 12,101 in favor of the ordinance and 5,831 opposed.

Primarily, the ordinance will ban Sunday sales in dry goods, jewelry, sporting goods, hardware and discount stores.

A maximum fine of $500 may be imposed on anyone convicted of violating the Sunday sales ban.

Explains Corn Belt's Aims

Mrs. Freeda Greenan

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following statement was released by Mrs. Freeda Greenan, president of Corn Belt Hatcheries, outlining the growth of the chicken and egg business in Hempstead County in the past and the future expansion planned. This expansion hinges on a proposed $245,000 bond issue to be guaranteed, but not necessarily collected, by a two mill property tax. Voters of Hempstead will decide the matter March 20.

To our many co-workers and friends in Hempstead County. Since establishing the first hatchery in Hope, in 1952, we have enjoyed a kind of cooperative spirit that makes business activities a pleasure. This fine teamwork has made the poultry industry grow from infancy to a primary activity in the lives of over 500 families in this area.

This kind of growth comes about when people, both in town and in the country see a need and decide to do something about it. The same economic factors that made this area an ideal poultry producing area in 1952 still exist today.

"As we observed the services now available to us that were not present 10 years ago, it becomes evident that some progress has been made—Mountaire's new feed mill, Corn Belt's new hatchery, two bulk stations for handling feed, an egg breaking plant, and eggs today our area goes all the way to the retail outlet with a product. In my opinion, there is no other location in the south today that has this kind of service on both broilers and eggs. We, therefore, have the opportunity to grow soundly in competition with other areas.

"Delight Egg Farms goes to the Dallas-Ft. Worth area with most of its eggs. This market demands a large volume of top quality eggs. This kind of quality cannot be purchased from another area—it must be produced locally. Some who feel that producers are in competition with one another probably do not have sufficient information. Our market potential seems to be at least 20,000 cases of eggs per week. This requires 1,500,000 layers on feed. It will take 5 years or more for production to reach what the market is demanding today.

"The proposed bond issue for the construction of an egg processing plant, and laying farm is another step to insure the continued sound growth of our industry. This bond issue carries with it a 2 mill tax enactment. This tax will be levied only in the event Delight Egg Farms should fail to pay for installation. The integrity of all our organizations rest with this obligation as it would with any other debt.

"As I look at the task ahead, it is comforting to know that we have the young men with the technical 'know-how' in the organization who are willing to tackle this big job. It is even more comforting to know that almost 100% of the producers who now produce eggs, pullets, or broilers for Corn Belt Hatcheries, Delight Egg Farms and Southland Farms have the courage to lend their support."

Complains About High Court Ruling

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Highway Department complained Tuesday that the Arkansas Supreme Court's decision Monday concerning acquisition of highway right of way is contrary to "every thing the court has held in the past."

The high court held Monday that the department must give property owners due notice before acquiring any right of way land. The court said further that such landowners must have a chance to claim damages.

Highway Department legal advisors asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to review its decision since the 1920s.

Monday's decision involved four which they contend may cost the state right of way land it has held blocks of right of way along state Highway 10 at Little Rock.

In past years, the Highway Department had obtained such land without the legal aspect and said that 38 communities in Arkansas had voted favorably for new state right of way land in which bond issues ranged all the way from $40,000 to $7,500,000. These 38 communities have created 4,600 new jobs. exemplary fashion and in accordance with the highest traditions of the country."

Others commending Powers were Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va.; Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md.

Powers filled in with vivid detail many of the highlights of his adventure May 1, 1960.

When he was winging high over the Ural Sea he saw two vapor trails far below him that might come from Soviet jets hunting for him. "I don't think they ever saw me," said Powers.

When he had landed by parachute he saw another parachute in the sky, not a part of his plane's equipment. At the time, he said he speculated it might be a parachute bringing back part of a fired Russian rocket.

The Soviets claim a rocket shot down the U2. Powers apparently was convinced it was a near miss, and no hit.

Powers said, "I feel that the explosion was external to the aircraft and behind me, but I really don't know."

He said his first reaction was to reach for what he called the "destruct switches." These were connected to a 2½-pound charge set to damage the photographic equipment.

While Powers never made it clear if this also would destroy the plane, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said such a charge would have been highly damaging to the plane itself. Goldwater is a reserve Air Force general.

Powers said there was a good reason why he couldn't use the pilot ejection mechanism provided in the plane.

"In this particular aircraft," he said, "there isn't much clearance between the pilot's knees and the top of the windshield. If I had used the ejection seat at that time I would probably have lost both legs just above the knees."

Powers said he tried to invent a story that he was off course but the Soviets wouldn't buy it as they had found the poison needle, maps of the Soviet Union, Russian rubles and other equipment.

Powers said he was questioned as much as 10 or 12 hours daily for some time. He said he was not mistreated.

Although his orders gave him authority to cooperate and answer most questions, Powers said, he was a reluctant witness under pre-trial interrogation.

Did the Russians misquote him as having said he made a terrible mistake in flying a mission over Soviet soil and was sorry?

"No," he said, "that wasn't a misquotation. I made this statement on the advice of my defense counsel, and also because it was easy to say I was sorry. What I meant by saying that, and what I wanted them to think I meant, was quite different.

"My main sorrow was that my

JFK Asking Help From Publishers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy appealed to the nation's advertisers and publishers today for support of his trade expansion program, declaring it one of the most vital issues facing the country.

Kennedy told the Advertising Council it performs a real national service with its $100-million annual advertising campaign for public causes.

"I hope that this year you will devote yourself especially to advancing our trade program," he said.

Kennedy said the swift development of Europe, helped by some $13.5 billion of American aid since the Marshall Plan, is creating a stable and valuable base across the Atlantic "from which we can expand the cause of freedom around the world."

He noted that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has devoted long speeches to his agricultural problems. The United States has agricultural problems too, Kennedy went on.

"But I certainly would not exchange problems with him. Our problem is overproduction, his is underproduction," Kennedy said.

The foreign economic program of the United States is bipartisan and should command the support of every group despite the obvious disadvantages which a mutual reduction of tariffs would bring, Kennedy said.

"I hope you will realize that the advantages for outweigh the disadvantages," he added. "This is, I believe, a most vital matter in the coming year."

The President said he believed many Americans do not fully realize how great a burden the United States is bearing in order to maintain the stability and prosperity of other free world countries, including the newly independent states.

"Our balance of payments problem would disappear overnight if it were not for the efforts we are making to help them keep their freedom," Kennedy said.

"If few are prosperous and many are poor the stability of the world would be in danger."

Conditions Condemned
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Pulaski County Grand Jury has condemned conditions at the County Penal Farm and the courthouse. A final report suggested razing the old part of the courthouse, built in 1887, and building a new one. The jury suggested that voters be asked again to approve a bond issue to buy a new site for the penal farm. Such an issue was rejected in the last general election.

Sees Cure for Boxing Ills

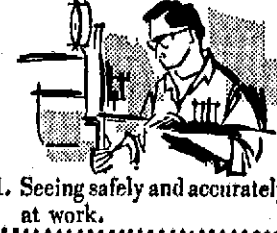

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Rocky Marciano has a four-point program he thinks could help cure the ills of boxing in the United States.

The ex-heavyweight king says he'd like to be federal boxing czar so he could work for uniform rules in every state, a better withholding tax plan for boxers, government subsidy to help develop young fighters and insurance and pension protection for boxers.

Marciano, who retired undefeated, told a reporter he thinks the sport could be on the upgrade two years after a commissioner is named.

Ex-President to Return to Brazil

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Ex-President Janio Quadros makes his long-awaited return to Brazil today for what most people believe will be a new quest for political power. He has given no hint of his plans.

Quadros, whose sudden resignation last August brought Brazil to the verge of civil war, arrives with his family aboard the steamship Ruys at the coffee port of Santos, 210 miles southwest of Rio. Friends, political allies and the usual turnout of the curious were expected to be on hand to welcome the 55-year-old leader back from his six months of self-imposed exile. No official red carpet reception was scheduled.

The Foreign Office reportedly dispatched a representative to extend protocol courtesies, but high government officials, including former members of Quadros' Cabinet, denied reports they would be on hand.

Quadros quit after eight months in the presidency blaming forces inside and outside the country which he said were hamstringing his policies. Brazil at the time was beset by economic ills and mounting political unrest. The situation has worsened.

The government that succeeded Quadros was born out of a hastily improvised parliamentary system forced on the nation by conservative military opposition to left-leaning Vice President Joao Goulart, who succeeded Quadros. The government has been unable to control the galloping inflation plaguing Brazil.

Smith May Seek High Court Seat

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — William J. Smith, Gov. Orval E. Faubus' legal advisor, said today he is considering running for a Supreme Court post but would not do so if the governor seeks a fifth term.

"Like everybody else, I'm waiting on him (Faubus) to announce his decision," Smith said.

Smith, a Little Rock lawyer, served a partial term on the state Supreme Court in 1958 as a Faubus appointee to succeed Judge Minor Millwee, who resigned after he was defeated in the Democratic primary by Justice Jim Johnson.

If Smith runs this year, he would seek the post vacated by the retirement of Justice J. S. Holt. Justice Neil Bollinger, who is filling the job by appointment, is ineligible to succeed himself.

Charges Late Senator Took Bribe

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal prosecutor has charged that the late Sen. George H. Bender, Ohio Republican, accepted a $100,000 bribe to quash a stock fraud investigation.

The accusation was made Tuesday by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gerald Walpin as he was finishing his opening statement in the trial of 12 men and four corporate defendants in the stock fraud case.

The defendants were indicted for allegedly selling 575,000 shares of unregistered stock of the United Dye and Chemical Corp., now known as Chemoil Industries Inc., in 1955 and 1956, costing the public $5 million.

Walpin said a defendant — oil promoter Samuel S. Garfield of Clare, Mich., paid the money to Bender. Bender at the time was special assistant to the secretary of the interior in the Eisenhower administration.

"The government will show," Walpin said, "that when the investigation commenced the defendant Garfield paid $100,000 to former Sen. George Bender, then special assistant to the secretary of the interior of the United States government, in order to get this investigation quashed."

Defense lawyer jumped up to accuse Walpin of "a false and inflammatory reflection upon a man he knows is now dead."

Arguing that bribery was not an issue in the case, the lawyers called Walpin's statement "a deliberate attempt to prejudice the jury."

Judge William B. Herlands overruled defense motions for a mistrial. He noted that Walpin's statement was not evidence but merely an outline of what the government hopes to prove.

Bender, who had served several terms as a congressman from Ohio, was in the Senate from 1954 to 1956. He died last June 17 at the age of 64.

Walpin said two other defendants shared responsibility for the bribe attempt. He named them as Virgil D. Dardi of New York, president of Chemoil, and oil investor Irving Pasternak of Denver.

As outlined by the government, the case against the defendants involves intricate stock manipulations and the alleged misleading of the public on earnings and prospects of United Dye and Chemical.

If convicted, each of the defendants could face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

Mrs. Nanine Sue King

Mr. and Mrs. Roy King of Nashville announced the engagement of their daughter, Nanine Sue, to William D. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Sullivan also of Nashville.

The bride-elect is a graduate of St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Hot Springs and is employed at Howard County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Sullivan is a graduate of Southern State College of Magnolia and is now teaching at Hope High School.

The wedding will be an event of July at the Antioch Baptist Church in Nashville.

Work Resumed at Titan Base

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Work resumed today at 17 central Arkansas Titan II missile base construction sites today.

L. B. Freeman, business agent for sheet metal workers who picketed the sites Monday after a jurisdictional dispute, with carpenters said workers had returned to their jobs.

Work at the sites came to a virtual standstill Monday when carpenters and the sheet metal workers disputed the right to install insulation.

Contractors obtained a temporary injunction against the picketing late Monday night and pickets were removed gradually Tuesday as Freeman went from site to site notifying workers of the injunction.

Freeman said the full work force at the sites, about 1,600 men was on duty today.

A hearing has been set March 14 in Pulaski Chancery Court to determine whether the temporary injunction should become permanent.

Callous Children Regard Mama as Baby-Sitter

By HELEN WOREN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Is suicide a coward's way out or could it be a happy escape from callous children?

All but two of my children are happily married. To eight, I am just a ready-made baby-sitter. True, baby-sitting is my profession, if you could call it a profession, but I do think it unfeeling for my own sons and daughters to park their youngsters willy-nilly with me.

I love my grandchildren but they do get on my nerves. My husband and I separated twice. Each time he promises to reform so back I come—to more of the same.

The only money I can call my own is what I earn baby-sitting and taking care of a child in my home. When my 21-year-old son gets mad at his wife, he comes back home. My 17-year-old daughter won't give up her room so I give him the couch and sleep on a chair. I'm an unpaid servant in my own home. What should I do — One-Who-Wants-to-Be-Wanted.

Dear Helen: I am going with a handsome young Brazilian who doesn't trust women. He's been in love with a girl who left him for another boy. I listened sympathetically to his sad story and assured him that eventually he would find the right girl for him. Suddenly I realized I wanted to be that girl. On our last date he held me close and whispered I was his special girl but, instead of a love letter, sent me a friendship card next day. This week one of the girls who attends the college I do told me that she'd seen him at a ball the previous night with a very beautiful girl. I am heartbroken. Do you think if I am less available he will be more eager — Lovesick

Dear Lovesick: Don't make the mistake of taking any Latin American too seriously. As the sister of a Chilean once told me, "My brother cries with one eye."

Play the field yourself. The more elusive you are, the more interested your handsome Brazilian will be. That's true of all men, regardless of nationality.

Dear Helen: I'm engaged to a boy who's courted me by mail—200 letters in one year! He lives on his father's ranch and I in a town many miles distant.

Now, out of a clear sky, he has asked me to release him, giving as his reason, the difference in our ages. I'm 29 and he 23. I'm broken-hearted. He's the only man I've ever wanted to marry. I've been true to him and my parents and friends think he's wonderful. Where did I fail — Forlorn

Dear Forlorn: The boy is probably telling the truth. At 23, he's still a kid. As he grows older he'll be less conscious of the difference in your ages. Give him time to mature. Write a graceful note assuring him he is free as the wind, then sit back and await developments.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Puppy Love."

Coming and Going

LEBANON, Ind. (AP) — Mechanical Justice of the Peace Joe P. Cooper got motorist James O. Darnall coming and going.

Darnall told mechanic Cooper his car was sluggish and lacked "get up and go." Cooper tuned it up—possibly too well. A little later Darnall came back to Justice Cooper with a speeding ticket.

Cooper fined Darnall $18.75 for speeding. He didn't say what the tuneup bill would be.

Camden Housing

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — Bracy Development Co., Inc., of North Little Rock submitted an apparent low bid of $779,000 Tuesday for construction of an 80-unit public housing project here. The Camden Housing Authority went into executive session after the nine bids were opened and will submit their bid approval to the Public Housing Authority at Fort Worth for final approval.

Expansion Only in Warm Areas

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ralph C. Wilson, president and owner of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills, testified Tuesday he was told by the president of the Detroit Lions that the National Football League was interested in expanding only to warmer climates.

Wilson said the Detroit Lions executive, Edwin Anderson, also told him if he would drop his Buffalo franchise, Anderson would help him get a substantial interest in an NFL franchise at Miami, Fla.

Wilson, who appeared as a witness for the AFL in its $10 million antitrust suit against the NFL, said he tried without success to implement an AFL franchise in Miami before going to Buffalo.

He failed, he said because he was unable to lease the Orange Bowl there for home games.

Wilson said he was "surprised and shocked" when he learned the NFL was going to grant a franchise in Minneapolis-St. Paul — where an AFL franchise had already been awarded.

Tax on whiskey was 9 cents a gallon during the War of 1812; today, the federal tax alone is more than $10.50 a gallon.

Reverses Labor Bosses' Conviction

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Convictions of nine present or former union leaders were reversed and indictments against two of the men were dismissed Monday by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The men had been charged with filing false non-Communist affidavits.

New trials were ordered for the other seven.

The court held that testimony of a key government witness amounted to hearsay.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) officers were convicted in U.S. District Court of charges of conspiring to file false non-Communist affidavits with the National Labor Relations Board between 1949 and 1956. Seven of them were sentenced to three-year prison terms and five $2,000 each. The other two received 8 month prison sentences and $1,500 fines.

The appeals court dismissed indictments against James H. Durkin, 48, Chicago, who had been sentenced to 18 months; and Chase J. Powers, 56, Spokane, Wash., who had drawn a three-year term.

It said mere knowledge of the alleged conspiracy did not make a conspirator of Durkin, a former union organizer.

The court said there was no evidence that Powers was a Communist in 1949 and thereafter and no evidence that he knew union officers who might have been Communists. Powers is a member of the union's executive board.

The other seven are Maurice Travis, 49, Richmond, Calif. former union secretary-treasurer; Harold Sanderson, 46, Denver, controller; Raymond Dennis, 49, Chicago, an executive board member; Albert Skinner, 52, Salt Lake City, Utah, vice president and executive board member; Charles E. Wilson, 51, Columbia, Tenn., and Jesse R. Van Camp, 52, Dan-

Russia Plans Overhaul of Farm Program

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev has called for a sweeping overhaul of the Soviet Union's agricultural system to provide more meat and other food for the expanding Soviet population.

Poor management of the Soviet collective farms has "seriously jeopardized" the country's agricultural program, Khrushchev warned in a six-hour speech Monday before the opening session of a Communist party Central Committee meeting called to approve new agricultural plans.

To cope with the mounting food shortage, Khrushchev proposed:

1. Planting vast areas of grass land in grain, despite objections from some agriculture experts that this departure from the traditional crop rotation system will result ultimately in less production.
2. Doubling production of farm machinery and encouraging the farmers to make better use of it.
3. Increasing production of chemical fertilizers now in critically short supply.
4. Increasing the farm labor force with city youths, including girls.

The premier warned that the Soviet population, now at 200 million, will reach between 250 and 280 million in the near future.

Failure to increase farm production accordingly will "confront the country with great difficulties and the cause of building communism will be seriously damaged," Khrushchev declared.

The Soviet premier noted complaints from various cities that there is little meat or butter for sale in shops.

"The fact is that we simply do not have enough meat," he said.

Khrushchev proposed setting up a new government agency to investigate thoroughly the needs of collective and state farms and direct the individual development of each farm.

The premier warned, however, that despite the need for a stepup in agricultural production, industry should not be neglected. Shortages in fertilizer and farm machinery are partly due to the fact that so much Soviet capital has been funneled into heavy industry in a bid to surpass U. S. industrial might.

Western correspondents were barred from the closed meeting. Moscow's leading papers came out today with eight-page editions, seven of which carried the text of Khrushchev's address.

Change in Education Suggested

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—There is so much to learn and so little time in which to learn it, that American education must be retooled from top to bottom, some of the nation's top educators said today.

Oliver J. Caldwell of the U.S. Office of Education suggested, for instance, that the traditional 12 years of free public education should be extended to 14 years.

For some students, he said, the last two years would consist of semiprofessional or vocational education. For others it would be the start of advanced academic training.

Caldwell, in a prepared address to the 17th National Conference on Higher Education, also proposed a new and more rigorous college program.

Four-year liberal arts colleges should be established, he said, which would start about where the present junior year of college work begins.

Graduate work and professional education thus would be based on 18 years of formal education instead of the present 16, Caldwell said.

Caldwell said the present 12-year program of elementary and secondary education is not strong enough for an era in which the body of man's knowledge doubles every 15 years.

Chapter 27
Cousin Matthew said nothing, and Hilda was silent. After a little, she went on hesitantly. "Cousin Matthew, do you think Jenny's illness can be a family thing? Something Addie inherited?"
"By the devil's horny hoof, girl, what now?"
"I'm serious, Cousin Matthew. Remember that time Addie got in the wine cellar, and Miss Maggy said he was drunk?"
"Course. Just an old woman's nonsense."
"That's what I thought, because Addie told me, positively, he hadn't had any wine, and I believed him. But, Cousin Matthew, when Addie was so sick, it hit me how much like Jenny's attacks his was. And that's when I began to worry."

"Well, you can stop right now. There's no such thing in this family." Cousin Matthew was definite. "Addie swallowed something he shouldn't, and he's young enough to have a mild convulsion. Probably seemed like Jenny's attacks to you. That's all."

Hilda began to feel better. "I suppose he did get into something he shouldn't, because, one day, he asked me if syrup could make you sick." She laughed. "I guess I'm just making up trouble."

"Yes," Cousin Matthew agreed. Hilda felt she had to explain. "It's quite a funny mixup. First, the doctor seemed to think Jenny was drunk and when she was, they thought she was ill. Now Addie was supposed to be drunk and he was sick."

She expected Cousin Matthew to laugh with her, but he didn't. In fact, he was frowning, and he didn't even answer.

Even Uncle George planned to take a holiday on the Fourth of July. He announced he would join friends at the race track in Jerome Park. So Will invited Hilda and Addie for a day on a Hudson River boat.

The boat was filled with a holiday crowd, but the breeze was cool, and the churning side-wheels fascinated Addie, while Hilda revelled in her first view of the beautiful Hudson River valley, and the towering Palisades.

They went ashore at Spuyten Duyvil, climbing the steep hill to the town square, where they witnessed a patriotic parade. Addie saluted the 37-star flag with enthusiasm, though he was less interested in the lengthy oratory that followed.

Night had fallen when the return trip was only half over. Happily tired, Addie slept on a sofa in the lounge, while Hilda and Will walked up into the prow.

Hilda had taken off her bonnet and, with only a light shawl over her shoulders, she gazed dreamily over the moonlit water, letting the night breeze ruffle her hair.

Will, leaning on the rail beside her, was more absorbed in her face than in the scenery. All day, he'd watched the guard Hilda kept on herself slip away, until the naturally gay, responsive girl he'd sensed from their first meeting, was revealed. Now, she was pensive, but not, he felt, withdrawn.

He longed to know if she felt his nearness with anything like the urgency that he felt hers. Her slim waist was only inches away, and surely he wasn't imagining that the rise and fall of her breast beneath her dimity dress was quicker than usual?

To distract his thoughts, Will began to talk about his forthcoming law examination.

"I'm going to see if I can't take it before the Russells go to Long Branch for the summer. After all, there's no saying whether Mr. Russell will keep me on, when Miss Jenny comes of age."

Hilda looked up. "You're leaving?"

The thought hadn't seemed to occur to her, and with secret pleasure, Will watched her eyes go dark. "I'm afraid so," he said.

Hilda turned away. "I expect I'll be leaving, too. It's not likely Jenny will want me around." She laughed a little, but Will caught the note of strain in her voice.

"I thought your home was with the Russells, regardless of Miss Jenny," he protested.

"Not exactly. Aunt Judith implied it, but things change."

Will was worried. He felt sure Hilda was keeping something from him. He was wondering how he could ask, when he felt her hand on his arm.

"Don't look so unhappy," she said, smiling. "Addie and I will

Motorists on Freeways 'Diseased'

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Motorists on modern freeways are developing three "diseases" which can be fatal, says C. G. Conner, an inspector with the Texas Department of Safety.

They are velocitis, freeway hypnosis and freeway magnetism, Conner told law enforcement officers attending the Southern Safety Conference here Monday.

Some drivers become so conditioned to continuous high speed that they are unaware of it and fail to reduce speed when necessary. That's velocitis.

Others become hypnotized by constant speed and have delayed reactions to hazards. That's freeway hypnosis.

Freeway magnetism was described as a reluctance on the driver's part to stop for rest. He drives too long, his reactions are slowed, he becomes fatigued and cannot properly operate his vehicle.

Also, Conner said, freeways give motorists "an increased feeling of freedom from police detection," and they ignore traffic laws.

The cures for the "diseases," Conner said, are closer police scrutiny and self-discipline on the part of the driver.

Jack Rhea of the Arkansas State Police was elected president of the Southern Region of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Co-ordinators.

About 1,000 delegates are attending the safety conference, which deals with all phases of accident prevention.

The Feb. 26 petition for the election was filed by the Allied Industrial Workers of America, an AFL-CIO union. The union wants to represent production and maintenance workers at the plant, excluding foremen, supervisory employees and the like.

The plant manufacturers refrigerators, air conditioners and freezers.

An NLRB spokesman said he was unable to say whether the union's petition was supported by application cards from a majority of those eligible for membership.

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—It will be just another day for E. L. Turner. This means coming to the office, observing that things are running without abnormal kinks, opening the mail, chewing tobacco, and reading newspapers—one in particular—his.

He won't like the fuss being made about his birthday, but he has learned over the years to put up with it.

Turner, publisher of The Valdosta Times, is 99 years old today. He notes with pride that he is the oldest active publisher of a daily newspaper in the United States. He has held the job 40 years.

The Greek physical philosopher, Democritus, propounded the atomic theory of matter as early as 400 B. C.

Boyer Claims National Title for Porkers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —Arkansas' Tommy Boyer climbed to new basketball heights here Tuesday night although the Porkers fell to Southern Methodist 84-81.

Boyer, a Sheridan, Ark., product, dropped in five for five from the free-throw line to become the first college player to average over 90 per cent accuracy from the charity line during a single season.

During the regulation season, which ended with the SMU encounter, Boyer sank 125 of 134 free throws for a .933 per cent, topping the old mark, .895, set in 1955 by Scott of West Texas State.

In the SMU game, Boyer scored 13 points, leading his team's total to 206, high for an Arkansas player in Southwest Conference competition.

Boyer also became only the second Porker to pass the 1,000-point mark, ending his college career with 1,042.

George Kolk, who played from 1944-46, scored a total of 1,195.

Asks Old Pro Teams Not to Harm League

BALTIMORE (AP)—Joe Foss, American Football League commissioner, testified Monday he sent a letter to each of the National Football League team presidents asking that they not do anything to destroy the new league.

The letter was dated Jan. 6, 1960—a few days after Foss formally took office as commissioner of the new league.

The letter appealed to NFL executives not to engage in practices aimed at "destroying" the new league, but to cooperate with the fledgling circuit.

Foss was the first witness to take the stand at the start of the second week of trial in the AFL's $10 million anti-trust suit against the NFL.

He acknowledged the AFL had captured some of the top draft choices of the NFL, although it was testified earlier that the AFL was suffering because of player competition with the older league.

His testimony prompted Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomas to ask for a compilation of the NFL draft choices. Thomas is hearing the case without a jury in U.S. District Court.

Tech and SMU Meet for SWC Title

By ED CORRIGAN

Texas Tech faces Southern Methodist and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia goes against Temple in showdown battles to decide the Southwest and Middle Atlantic Conference champions Friday night.

Along with the title will go coveted spots in the NCAA tournament. Texas Tech, the defending champion, and Southern Methodist both won their final Southwest Conference games Tuesday night to wind up the regular season with identical 11-3 league records.

Neither had it easy. Texas Tech barely got past Rice, 60-58, by virtue of converting 20 of 25 free throws. Southern Methodist beat Arkansas, 84-81, after the Razorbacks had pulled to within one point of a tie with a minute to go.

St. Joseph's had things even tougher. The Hawks had to overcome a 16-point half-time deficit to defeat Lafayette, 78-68, and pull into a tie with Temple, each with a 9-1 league record. Temple already had finished its season.

The Southwest playoff will be held in Fort Worth and the Mid-Atlantic in Philadelphia.

Texas Tech and Southern Methodist played each other twice during the regular season, and there was little to choose between them. Tech won the first game, 69-63, at Southern Methodist. SMU came right back and won the second, 68-63, at Tech.

St. Joseph's beat Temple, 53-49, in their only meeting during the regular season.

The loser of the Texas Tech-Southern Methodist playoff is finished for the year. But the Middle Atlantic second-place team gets a spot in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. That will be the 11th NIT team. The 12th will be the loser of the Missouri Valley Conference playoff between Cincinnati and Bradley Monday night. Victor of that one goes to the NCAA.

Texas edged Texas Christian, 71-68 and Texas A&M coasted to an 84-61 victory over Baylor. It marked the Aggies' 24th straight homecourt decision. Siena ran its winning streak to nine with a 77-54 triumph over St. Peter's of Jersey City.

Ouachita Stuns Tech 110-88

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) —Wayne Davenport and Leon Clements combined for 64 points Tuesday night to pace Ouachita to a stunning 110-88 victory over Arkansas Tech in the finals of the District 17 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament.

The Tigers will go to Kansas City for the national NAIA Tournament, March 17.

Ouachita jumped out front early and employed ball stealing and alert playing to harass the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference champions.

Davenport tallied 25 points in the first half and took scoring honors with 38. Clements scored 26.

Ken Saylor, the AIC scoring leader, managed 33 points but couldn't pull a single-handed verdict.

Twice during the AIC season the Wonder Boys downed Ouachita but lacked steam Tuesday night, and the closest they came was 22-18 midway in the first half.

Ouachita ended in fourth place in the final AIC standings.

Porks Drop Final Game to Mustangs

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —Arkansas' bedraggled Razorbacks failed in their bid to end on a winning note here Tuesday night and fell to Southern Methodist 84-81 in a Southwest Conference basketball finale.

The victory gives SMU a tie with Texas Tech for the conference crown. They will square off Friday night at Fort Worth to see who enters the NCAA playoffs.

Arkansas raced ahead briefly midway in the second half on two freethrows by Wilson, but Jim Thompson pulled the Ponies back into the game until Jerry Carlton added two more free throws giving the Porkers the lead once again.

But it was a short-lived lead. Thompson rammed in a tying freethrow. Wilson put Arkansas ahead once more and then two free throws by Dave Siegmund, with less than eight minutes remaining, gave SMU their final victorious lead.

Carlton and Wilson each helped Arkansas' losing effort with 22 points but scoring honors went to league-leader Jan Loundermilk who paced the Mustangs with 29 points.

The loss was a bitter pill for the Porkers who earlier in the season launched a nine-game winning streak only to see their victory combination fade.

Leave Frank Alone, Brass Orders

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Orders in the Los Angeles Dodger camp are to leave Frank Howard strictly alone. The feeling among the brass is that too much advice has done more to confuse than help the big fellow.

Duke Snider, the Dodgers' elder statesman and team captain, is among those who think Howard has been a victim of too much advice. That, Snider says, is one of the reasons for the failure of the $100,000-bonus collegian to capitalize on his tremendous potential.

"I've heard it said that Frank is a stubborn kid who won't listen," said Snider. "I don't believe it. He's a nice kid. His trouble is that he listens to too many people. Everybody in the organization has tried to help him."

This is Howard's fifth year with the Dodgers although he has put in only one full season. When the 6-7, 245-pounder joined L.A. in '58, he was hailed as the next Babe Ruth. He had the size, the strength and the swing. His best so far was 23 home runs in 1960.

Last year he boosted his batting average 28 points to .296 but his home run production fell to 15.

Snider thinks Howard can't fail to reach stardom but adds, "He needs lots of help."

"Frank should concentrate on watching movies of his swing and then listen to just one guy instead of half a dozen," Snider said.
